

PROWORD (PROcedure WORD)

There are many users of ProWords, Armed Forces, Aviation, Commercial & Recreational boat traffic & Amateur Radio

In addition to the obvious list of environments you will find “codes”, that are used to convey special meanings, in private (business) nets or Policing (10-? codes).

The following is a list of sources that have been used .

This list is not all encompassing but comprises a list of prowords that will be understood by most of the radio operators you will encounter.

Be flexible when DX-ing. English-Canadian may not be their first language. The goal is to communicate.

Source Documents

1. Generally I like the US Coastguard Radiotelephone Handbook Appendix B

https://www.dhs.gov/sites/default/files/publications/CGTTP_6-01_1A_Radiotelephone_Handbook-%20508%20compliant%20v2.pdf

2. The RAC-ARES Operations Training manual is “reasonable” but contains prowords with duplicate meanings.
